

Project WILD AT THE FAIR!

August 9, 2008

Do you like being with kids in the outdoors?

Do you know how hunting and fishing impact you?

Do you love the Indiana State Fair?

DNR

What:

If you answered YES to any of the questions at the left, join us this summer for the second annual WILD at the Fair educators' event. Your day will begin with America's Fishing and Hunting Heritage 101. This talk will focus on why this heritage is imperiled and how that impacts all of us regardless of whether we hunt or fish. View an excellent short film on the history of wildlife management, hear updates on the status of hunting and fishing trends in Indiana, and brainstorm your role in maintaining this rich heritage—regardless of whether you hunt or fish. This talk will be presented by Amanda Wuestefeld, IDNR's Hoosier Outdoor Heritage Coordinator. After a chance to wander the fair, you'll spend the late afternoon having fun with kids at the State Fair fishing pond. You do not need to know how to fish to attend this event!

Who:

Educators who have been through a Project WILD workshop. You may bring a buddy from your school or organization. Your buddy does not have to have been through the Project WILD program. Buddies must participate in all of the activities and will receive all of the program benefits.

When:

Saturday, July 26: Orientation to the fishing pond; 10-11 am
Saturday, August 9: 9-10:30 am and 4-7 pm

Where:

All events take place at the Indiana State Fairgrounds in Indianapolis.

What you'll receive:

3 CRUs... Free pass into the Fair...T-shirt... Free time to see the Fair... Chance to fish or do crafts with kids... Chance to be "behind the scenes" with DNR... Free parking...

Need more reasons to come?

During your free time August 9, see the following DNR events: Taste of the Wild Free Cookout... Sessions on snakes and turtles... Hands on activities from Flying WILD... Foster Brown Nature Theatre special performances... not to mention the rest of the Fair!
